LAST WEEK'S

MAN OF THE MATCH

Toms Rutkis grabbed Man of the Match in the win at home against Raiders. Liam Stewart took the honor at Raiders in Sunday, scoring 2 goals and 2 assists.

LIAM STEWART

PLAYER PROFILE

Liam Stewart, a remarkable forward for the Milton Keynes Lightning, brings an impressive blend of skill and experience to the ice. Born on September 5, 1994, in London, England, Stewart, at 29 years old and standing 6'1", showcases his talents as both a center and left winger. Notably, he holds dual nationality with England and New Zealand and is a left-handed shooter.

Stewart's journey in ice hockey is highlighted by his top-scoring season in 2022-23 with the Milton Keynes Lightning in the NIHL. He displayed exceptional offensive prowess, scoring 44 goals and assisting 38 times, accumulating a total of 82 points in just 53 games. This performance underlines his capability to significantly impact the game, making him a key player for Milton Keynes Lightning in their current campaign.

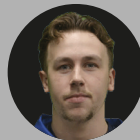

COACH'S COMMENTS

To get four points and play solid hockey for five out of six periods I was happy with the direction we are going. We lost our focus in the third period at home. We have talked about it and need to learn to keep our foot on the gas. We battled through it and found a way to get the two points with an amazing crowd behind us.

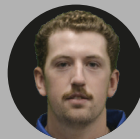

Sunday we played some of our best hockey of the year. A lot of systems, details and chemistry started to click which was great to see. We need to have a great week of practice and we are looking forward to the challenge of Leeds back to back.

Kieran Brown (Forward, #12): Kieran Brown, the captain of Leeds Knights, has been exceptional this season. In 15 games, he's scored 22 goals and provided 15 assists, totaling 37 points. His scoring prowess in various situations, including power plays and shorthanded, marks him as a key player.

Matt Haywood (Forward, #11): Matt Haywood is a crucial playmaker, with 6 goals and 19 assists in 15 games, summing up to 25 points. His ability to create scoring chances, particularly in even-strength and power play, is notable.

Matthew Barron (Forward, #37): Matthew Barron has shown impressive performance this season, scoring 8 goals and 15 assists in 15 games, accumulating 23 points. His balanced contribution in scoring and assisting, along with his effectiveness in power play situations, makes him a significant asset for the Leeds Knights.
